Dear Professor,

Sub: An employability initiative from Tata Consultancy Services (TCS)

As you may know, TCS is one of the largest software companies in the world. TCS is also the largest employer of science graduates (B.Sc./BCA students) in India. Over the last several years, TCS has offered IT opportunities to over 9,000 of the brightest young science graduates from across 6,000 colleges. All those who joined are doing well in the industry on account of the rigorous training provided through the Ignite program of TCS.

In order to help your students, we are now offering free online programming exercises, online courses and thousands of practice tests to enable your students to better prepare for a career in the IT industry.

Could you please share information about this program with your students and encourage them to participate in it. Students can participate by registering at the following link <http://openseesame.tcs.com/ignite>

I am enclosing posters with this letter. May I request you to display the posters on your notice board for all students to see.

We would be glad to work with you and your college if you could drop us a mail to: chennai.ignite@tcs.com along with the name and contact number of the point of contact from your college.

Thank you.
TCS Ignite
